

PHILOSOPHY

Adventist education provides an atmosphere of learning that is conducive to the optimum development of the complete student. Music, as one of the arts, is an essential part of the curriculum, and should play a major role in the educational program of every student. These musical experiences will enable students to appreciate the God of beauty, and to express their faith through aesthetic growth and creativity. The arts are indispensable to the intellectual, cultural, emotional, psychological, and spiritual development of the total person.

Shout for joy to the Lord, all the earth;
Burst into jubilant song with music! Ps. 98:4

Our Clinicians

Steve Martin, Band
MA Music Ed, VanderCook College of Music. He is a recording artist on eighteen different instruments. His performances have been broadcast on 3ABN, Family Radio Network and Adventist World Radio. Currently, he is the band director, PE teacher, and vice principal at North Shore Junior Academy in Chicago, IL. "Band Festivals are always a highlight of the year for my students, and I'll do my best to make it a rewarding one for you too."

Curtis Anderson, Choir
MA Choral Conducting, Eastern Washington University. He is the choral director of Upper Columbia Academy in Washington State where he has taught for the last nine years. He has been involved with Adventist academies for twenty-two years including at Ozark, Chisolm Trail, Mount Ellis, and San Diego academies. His choirs are known as some of the finest in the country. "Music has to be fun and performed with a purpose. That purpose is to praise God!"

New Clinician!

Rob Knipple, Orchestra
BA Music, LaSierra University. He is the Fletcher Academy Orchestra and Choir Director. Previously he led orchestra, band, choir, and handbells at Great Lakes and Highland View Academy. He has been in music ministry in Adventist education for ten years. "My goal is for students to experience music as ministry."

Kathy Russell, Handbells
MA Music Ed, Univ. of MD. She taught handbells in Maryland for five years and is the current Handbell director at Adventist Christian Academy - Charlotte. She has attended handbell clinics at Westminster Choir College in Princeton, NJ. "While ringing together at the festival, I want to build teamwork skills and to have fun playing to glorify God."
